The Condition of the Masses Should be Ameliorated and the Democracy Should Unite on a Good Leader

The most hopeful sign of the times is the spontaneous uprising of the people throughout our country, and that too without any conspicuous leader. It has a pertinent sig-nificance about it on account of its unity and eathusiasm. What will it accomplish—this move of the peoples' party? Will it be for good or evil to the government! And what are the chief causes which led to it? The first and second interrogatories are not the first and second interrogators are not so easily answered, but as to the third, all thinking people are familiar. The largest class of our people are the toiling masses. They feel, and not without reason, that they are unduly and unnecessarily oppressed by the money power; by a thieving tenth of the circumstance. tariff; by a starving contraction of the cir-culating medium; by corrupt legisla-tion; by the landing of the worst class of pauper labor from all Europe on our shores to take the places of American labor in the mills and work shops; by the robberies concocted upon the consumer of the necessaries of life—called by the moneyed power and sanctioned by our government as syndicates, combines, trusts and the like. The laboring classes represent the ma-jor part of this government, which was founded by Washington, Jefferson, Hamilton. Madison and other patriot fathers not less worthy, and it was intended that the government should derive its power from the governed. It was considered "an experiment? by Mr. Jefferson, and the ques-tion now actually arises, has the experi-ment proved a failure? About this there are no doubt conflicting opinions among many of our people, but there can be none among the real toiling masses of our country who are in any measure enlightened. Did it ever occur to the reader that a labor-ing man only makes a bare living if he has a family to support, even if he aids in build ing blocks of masonry or has constant work in the mines or workshops! He is as much in the mines of workshops! He is as much your slave, in one sense of the word, as if you owned him. He erects a magnificent building; still he is no better off when he finishes than when he begun. This is because he must meet competition, has a famy to provide for, and cannot see them go a want, when he would at best save only a few dollars by his unnatural deprivation.
Then again he sees the tendency of the times to worship and cater to those who have been by a combination of circumstances more lucky than himself and who perchance were none the less honest. He sees that to hold office requires money with which to buy votes and looks on as money rides into power. He has been patient and full of belief that one or the other of the old parties would bring relief or fair dealing to his bother workmen and himself. and parties would bring rener or fair dealing to his brother workmen and himself; but now, alas! patience has ceased to be a virtue. He looks for no relief from the Harrison administration or another Cleveland administration. The pet hobby of the Republicans is the McKinley bill, and the Cleveland Democrats seem to think that Grover for president and Col. Mills for speaker are the main issues before the people. God pity the confiding laboring and farming element of our people! We must return to the early teachings of the patriot fathers. Instead of a longer reign of the moneyed plutocracy, the seat of power must again reside in the people. The government must (no use talking of centralization) assume control of the railroads and telegraph wires. The railroads will give occupation to honest men and the telegraph offices to worthy and deserving women. It is noteworthy that few defalcations occur ing to his brother workmen and himself with Uncle Sam.

The writer has for many years regarded The writer has for many years regarded the Fort Worth GAZETTE very much as he did his breakfast, and is glad to testify here that this paper has done more for the people than any other medium of thought in our state, and he is sure so great a journal will allow a free discussion of the great is tarther comparison of necounts with the many banks in which city funds are seen as to avert what may banks in which city funds are be the greatest calamity that ever threatened this government. Let Democrats cease advocating Cleveland, and concentrate on some great and tried leader like William R. Morrison of Illinois. The Democracy has the brains, and recognizes all the abuses heaped upon the people; why can she not rise up equal to the great emergency confronting us for 1892? This is our only bare. We must cut loose from Well.

gency confronting us for 1892? This is our only hope. We must cut loose from Wall street or "give up the gun."

In conclusion, if this is to-day a government of the people and by the people, we have the singular anomaly of a people oppressed by themselves. The Democracy needs at this time sterling statesmaniship that, without fear or favor, will champion the rights of the people.

A Kansas City Judge Declares County and City Licenses Void. Kansas City, Mo., May 23.—Judge Field of the circuit court of this county rendered a very important decision this morning based on the dramshop act of 1889. The case is an injunction restraining a saloon-keeper from conducting a dramshop business. The county and city licenses of the saloca-keeper were declared void on several grounds, among which are the failure to secure a petition for the issuance of a license signed by a majority of the citizens living in the block in which the saloon is located, the failure to indemnify the city nd county against Sunday opening, selling to habitual drunkards and permitting gam bling and music in the saloons, because the amount of the bend was left blank whereas the statute requires it to be $2000 provision in the latter part of section 4574 of the Revised Statutes

The case has been appealed. If the decision should be sustained by the appellate courts every saloon in this city will be af-fected, and every saloon license is void.

Trade to-day has been fairly good in all departments, especially retail lines wholesalers report a slight let up as the first approaches. The general markets are all in splendid condition in the matter of supply, especially in choice vegetables and other table commodoties of country production. Eggs are lower per case, but no change otherwise Poultry is quoted lower, also butter. Pack-ing house products are slightly changed

All markets generally firm.

Pork Packing and Provisions.

Changes are also noted in wholesale groces

From the Cincinnati Price Current-"The returns for the week show no en "The returns for the week show no enlargement in the Western packing, the total being 190,000 hogs against 195,000 the preceding week, and 300,000 last year—making a total of 2,390,000 since March 1, against 2,615,000 last year, a decrease of 110,000 for the week and 225,000 for the season, company of the control of the season, company of the property of the season, company of the page 101. pared with last year. With this large fall-ing off in number of hogs in current pack-ing operations, there is also a very decided decrease in average weight. There is con-siderable of variableness as to quality of the marketings; in some instances the re-turns budgets as improvement over the returns indicate an improvement over the re-cent past, and in others a decline. In the larger markets the quality has been changeable, some days better than others, but no general tendency to increased average weight is yet indicated. Prices have re-ceded during the week, closing about 15 cents per 100 pounds lower than a week ago on the average for places operating. In the provision trade nothing especially notable ias occurred.

"The current demand for product has been fair, but not large, there being manifest more or less of belief on the part of receivers in the consuming sections that prices are likely to be lower in the near outure, and this has led to some curtailment in orders. Exports of products for the week were moderate, falling con-siderably short of corresponding week last year, more particularly in bacon. Senti-ment concerning the future develops in accordance with the view which the oper-ator takes—if he holds up for special consideration the large stocks of product, and reasons that enlarged supplies of hogs are now or nearly due, and gives little heed to the prospective great and continuous short age in current marketings compared with last year, he satisfies himself that the po-sition justifies lower prices. "On the other hand, the trader who recognized fully the chances for a great reduc-tion in the marketable supply of hogs and in the average weight throughout all the remainder of the season, looks upon current values as not high in any reasonable view values as not high in any reasonable view or comparison, regards with indifference the evidences of unusually large supplies of products now and inevitable for weeks and months to come or underrates the probable influence of such supplies upon values, and calculates that products should be on a parity with corn at its unusual position regardless of any other bearings, will be sure to count with confidence not only upon maintenance of values, but a rad-ical improvement not long to be delayed. The situation is peculiar and unusual, and the outcome, not unlikely, will be a sur-prise or a disappointment to the majority of operators in not meeting the expectations of one class with reference to a decline or of the other concerning the anticipated ad-

"There is no demand to be expected, combined with any decrease in manufacture likely to occur to justify the view that stocks at the end of October will be otherwise than liberal—while the reduction in the stocks of product will be continuous and large, and this fact will naturally prove helpful in maintaining courage and values. Compared with a week ago closing prices at Chicago for July delivery show a decline of 35 cents on pork, 1214 cents per 100 pounds on lard and 5 cents on short rib sides."
